

BEASLEY ALLEN/CAMPBELL LAW WIN A $25.8 MILLION AWARD AGAINST TERMINIX FOR THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

MOBILE, AL (March 19, 2026) – Beasley Allen Law Firm, and Campbell Law, have been awarded $25,878,087.84, including $8,600,000.00 in punitive damages on behalf of the Archdiocese of Mobile in a termite damage dispute against Terminix International Company, L.P., involving multiple properties in and around downtown Mobile, including the Cathedral Basilica of the Immaculate Conception.

An arbitration panel ruled in favor of the Archdiocese following extensive proceedings addressing termite damage at several Archdiocese owned properties. The matter proceeded in phases, with findings supporting both compensatory damages and punitive damages.

The case involved multiple properties owned by the Archdiocese, including historic structures located in downtown Mobile. Central among them was the Cathedral Basilica of the Immaculate Conception, one of Alabama's most prominent religious landmarks.

“The case focused on Terminix’s long term failures in termite inspection and treatment services that allowed significant damage to develop and persist across multiple properties owned by the Archdiocese,” said Beasley Allen’s Lance Gould, and co-lead counsel in the litigation. “We are very pleased with the result for our clients.,” added Gould.

In addition to Lance Gould, the Archdiocese was represented by Beasley Allen’s Tyner Helms, Jessi Haynes, and Lauren Miles.

Campbell Law, led by Tom Campbell, served as co lead counsel. Campbell Law, is a firm well-known for its work in termite and pest control litigation.

The two law firms have teamed up to handle this termite litigation together and bring justice to consumers and businesses alike who have suffered damages because of corporate misconduct in the pest control industry.

We encourage any property owners who have suffered termite damage to:

- Preserve all contracts, reports, communications and other documentation
- Obtain independent termite inspections
- Refuse to authorize major repairs unless unavoidable
- Seek legal advice if damage occurred during an active contract
