

HORMONE THERAPY LITIGATION UPDATE

Last month we reported on the Pennsylvania Appellate Court decision to affirm a $1.5 million dollar compensatory and $8.6 million dollar punitive award against Wyeth. Plaintiff's attorneys Zoe Littlepage and Rainey Booth did an excellent job with the trial and appeal of this case. Their client, Mary Daniel, was diagnosed with hormone positive breast cancer after taking Wyeth's hormone pill, Prempro, for 18 months. Since reporting on this, we have had people ask about the verdict track record in this litigation that has been going on for several years now. So, here it is:

2. Sept. 2006	PA	Nelson	Wyeth	Breast cancer	5 years	Plaintiff verdict: $1.5 million	Trial was bifurcated and mistrial declared, before punitives submitted	Mistrial declared after compensatory verdict due to jury misconduct
1. Sept. 2006	AR	Reeves	Wyeth	Breast cancer-	8 years	Defense verdict	Not submitted

As you can see, plaintiffs have won trials 12 out of 18 times. The average compensatory verdict has been $2.6 million – this is certainly understandable given the serious nature of breast cancer. Each time a jury has been allowed they have found Wyeth's and/or Upjohn's conduct to be so bad as to warrant punitive damages with the average being $30.4 million.

I understand there are a number of prempo trials scheduled this year, including two we will try right here in Montgomery in July and December. It will be interesting to see what juries have to say in the coming months.
